Broken Heart by Created Alive

Broken heart, beating slow
I heard my life in stereo
A pounding sound, set to compound
Trying to drown out the radio

Broken heart beating slow
I heard my life in stereo

It's all in the past
I close my eyes and I won't look back
Forever will last with you

Now as our love subsides through the smoke in our eyes with bloodshot clouded tears to die for Saying goodbye is the right way to lose
Now going the right way with permission to choose

I will walk on a concrete path
Following the way through the grass
The beaten trail is choked and overgrown
I will walk through life with hope

Broken heart beating slow
I heard my life in stereo
A pounding sound set to compound
Trying to drown me out

It's all in the past
I close my eyes and I won't look back
This time, forever will last with you

More Pleasure Alone by Created Alive

Live life how it should be Take time to look around
Don't get stuck on me
Sympathetic me has drowned

I'm only living to know
How far is it to go?
when I'm here on my own
I get more pleasure alone

You've always given me the answers
I've always found the truth
Don't think of me and waste your time
Get out and waste your youth

I'm only living to know
How far is it to go?
when I'm here on my own
I get more pleasure alone

It happened too fast and went too long
Just think of the past, how it was wrong
I know I'll never live to love
You or anyone above

I love myself, that's all I need
And I am glad that I am free
You can't have me, I am mine
Go to hell, I don't have time
I love myself, that's all I need
I'd just love you, to just hate me
Hate me, hate me

I'm only living to know
How far is it to go?
When I'm here on my own
I get more pleasure alone

Remember the hours that were on fire
Then think of the days that were lost
It's not as good as you desire
Everything had a cost

I'm only living to know
How far is it to go?
When I'm here on my own
I get more pleasure alone
All the way on my own
All the way on...
All the way on my own
All my pleasure alone

Medicamental by Created Alive

She lies awake at night
Staring at the ceiling with wasted eyes
So blind to the world outside
Why it's so appealing this time of night

She cries alone at night
Calling out for reason to come inside
Confined to this world of treason
She's self-defeated with wasted sights

I see myself in her reflection
A waste of life in this dimension
Give me something, more than nothing
Give me anything, more than life

She was brought up on the lemonade
Then she turned to the cheap champagne
A sweet substitution for the sour taste she knew
Graduated from her ginger ale
On trial for her holy grail
Psychosomatic, it's so tragic
Any drug would do -

But the only one she would never take was you
No, the only one she would never take was you

She cries alone inside
Now she's drawn the curtain for the final time
Unsure who will open the door
But she knows for certain it's time to try

Confused, she stumbles to her bedroom through diminished light
Subdued by every poison
She lies down in her bed tonight

I see myself in her reflection
A waste of life in this dimension
Give me something, more than nothing
Give me anything, more than life

She was brought up on the lemonade
Then she turned to the cheap champagne
A sweet substitution for the sour taste she knew
Graduated from her ginger ale
Now she's on trial for her holy grail
Psychosomatic, it's so tragic
Any drug would do -

But the only one she would never take was you
No, the only one she would never take was you
No, the only one she would never take was...

Underwater Slumber
by Created Alive

And all along I thought I held you
You held me down while underwater singing worshipping the ground you're sinking Deeper into sleepless slumber understanding standing underneath you
Depressed beneath you
Depressed beneath you
Depressed beneath you

Now I don't want to know you
But you're all I seem to know
No, I don't want to know you
But you're all I seem to know

[repeat all]

My Suicidal view by Created Alive

Just another day, you said
Call around I'll be ahead when all my stand-by tears have fled we'll reminisce our history then Although I know everything
I'm still so stupid, suicide is cool

Just another night we prayed waited for the world to fade
Could such a man deserve this shade
All the laws led life astray
I forget why I obeyed
Still so stupid, suicide is cool

Take the taste of love and blame of love and loss and death
Share the shame with love of pain
And love to hold your breath
I consider everything, I was there that day And lest that I'll forget it now we all must learn to pay

Just another fallen sign Crossed another solid line
Taken everything of mine
Give me just a piece of time
Time enough to change my mind

Am I still so stupid?
Am I still so stupid?
My suicidal view

Rose garden Bed by Created Alive

So I sit back, kick back, another day open the window, waste away
A gentle breeze blows through the trees
And I can see the sun shining down on me

I shall not be consumed
I will extinguish every tire

I shall not be consumed
I will extinguish every tire

So I sit back, kick back, another day open the windows, waste away
A gentle breeze blows through the trees
And I can see the sun shining down on me

I shall not be consumed
I will extinguish every tire

I shall not be consumed
I will extinguish every tire

Life's garden she shall harden
Give my pardon to those garden gnomes
They can't grow
They won't grow
You can though
They can't

I shall not be consumed
I will extinguish every tire

I shall not be consumed
I will extinguish every tire

I shall not be consumed
I will extinguish every tire

Sweet November by Created Alive

Happiness in fairytales underneath your fairy veil
Searching for that perfect world
Seizing the day

Now nightmares in fantasy
underline your broken dreams
Is there any sense in innocence
Now that you've been burned?

And I remember my sweet November
Turning me on but tearing me down
Though now I burn down

To hell with all the love you gave to me well I was under the spell that we were meant to be Now why the hell would you want a guy like me?
well I'm nothing else but another misery

Now nightmares in fantasy
underline your broken dreams
Is there any sense in innocence
Now that you're alone?

And I remember my distant December
And though now I see burn down

To hell with all the love you gave to me
well I was under the spell that we were meant to be (But really)
Now why the hell would you want a guy like me?
(In all honesty)
I'm nothing else but another misery

Though now I see her
My sweet misery
I'm still waiting to dream

To hell with all the love you gave to me

Sunset New Orleans by Created Alive

Frozen frames of memories Hanging on to eternity our precious moments set in stone
For all the world to see

But underneath that dusty glass our future sank into the past As childhood only bound by time would wash away so fast

The sun has set on New Orleans
with petrol fumes and gasoline
The times we knew we thought would never fade

without fail, we'd set sail
I've been around the world with you Imagination unrestrained where everything was new we were still young then

But innocence will reign again
If you'll allow the sun to shine
You'll let your spirits grow

The sun has set on New Orleans
with petrol fumes and gasoline
The times we knew we thought would never fade

Ancient days make kings and queens with lonely hearts and shallow dreams
The times we knew we thought would never fade
The times we thought we knew would never fade
